

I recently heard that you may be taking K-LOVE radio off the air to make room for other services and found this to be unacceptable. While you, our government, funds radio stations like NPR, you are taking off the air a listener funded radio station that promotes Christian values. Would you do this to an Islamic or liberal station? You have no right to revoke the licenses of listener supported stations that have consistently upheld decency standards. That I am even having to defend this station in light of all the other issues you as an agency are facing is incredible. Please reconsider this decision, as you would be making a major mistake. Remember freedom?
